

Celebrating Global Surveyors' Day

20.03.2024 12:17

In the spirit of celebrating Global Surveyors' Day, the Federal Administration for Geodetic and Real Property Affairs extends its warmest congratulations to all geodetic professionals and enthusiasts around the globe. This day serves as a reminder of the invaluable contribution that geodetic experts make to our society, from mapping our world with precision to facilitating essential infrastructure and urban planning projects. As we acknowledge their dedication and expertise, let us also recognize the importance of geodetic science in shaping our understanding of the Earth and its resources.

This year, the Global Surveyors' Day will be celebrated online on March 21st. Registrations to attend can be found at the following link. This virtual event will be hosted twice to allow for maximum participation across global time zones.

Happy Global Surveyors' Day!
